

A PINCH OF HAPINNESS

We have talked a lot about happiness. We still do. Either by trying to describe it or by proposing some way to achieve it. It may be that happiness is the freest of states, hostile to being constrained, and that is why yours is not the same as mine or his. But it is felt. It is a life force, a wave of thrust. The writer of these lines thinks of it as the hypnotic fluttering of the hummingbird. A swift jolt that as it comes it goes away, and yet what a rich aftertaste it has left on the senses!

We are heading towards 2023 and we've thought that we shall put together those moments of happiness that you've had throughout this year. But first, a question:

What has made you happy?

Think about it, give it time... Do you have it?

If you were able to capture that moment, situation or whatever that has made you happy, it would be great if you could share it with us. You can also "make" new pictures inspired by our question.

- No matter if you are a professional photographer or not.
- We are not looking for technique, we are looking for expression of that happiness.
- Sometimes it's not the big stuff. There are also other situations or details that are not so revolutionary in our lives, but they manage to lift our spirits and spirit.
- The title of the image is optional, but if you can accompany it with a few lines answering the question above, you will help us a lot in our curatorial work.

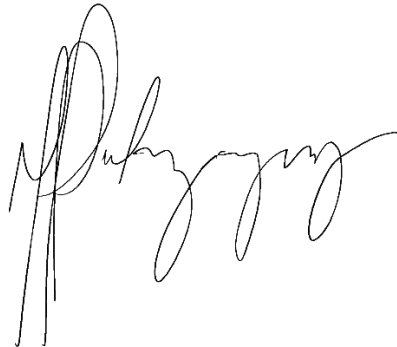

The inspiration of happiness is always varied, but it may be that in the end our happiness moments are not as dissimilar as one might think.
